

University of Washington French and Spanish Immersion Programs

The University of Washington is offering two immersion institutes this summer for pre- or in-service teachers of French and Spanish.

The Guatemala Experience: Immersion in Spanish Language, Culture and History in Antigua, July 24-Aug. 10, 2005, offers teachers 6 credits of UW Spanish 493.

Features of the institute include one-on-one language instruction, group class in Guatemalan culture and history, excursions in the area, visits to local schools and several days around Lake Atitlan. Participants stay with families in Antigua. Cost, not including air fare, travel documents and insurance plus a few meals, is $1800.

For more information, check out our web site:

<http://www.outreach.washington.edu/k12/spanish/>

Québec's Language, Culture and Society in the Classroom: An immersion institute for French teachers, July 4-22, 2005, offers teachers 6 credits of UW French 499.

Components on Québec's history, language and cultural traditions are integrated with pedagogy, including using technology. There are excursions to nearby areas, including Montréal, and evening activities. Participants stay with families or in dorms on the campus of Université Laval in conjunction with which the institute is offered. Cost, not including air fare, travel documents and some meals, is $2199. Some scholarship money is available.

For more information, check out our web site:

<http://www.outreach.washington.edu/k12/quebec/default.asp>

Other questions: Please contact lklausenburger@ese.washington.edu or 206 685-6421.